

ABSTRACT

A web-based generator testing and monitoring system is provided that includes monitoring logic, and a web server. The monitoring logic typically monitors an AC output signal associated with an AC plant. The web server is typically coupled 5 to the monitoring logic and to a network. The web server retrieves the AC output signal, and sends a coded web page to display the AC output signal to a user in a graphical format. Methods and other systems are also provided.